"We are all deeply grateful for the opportunities you provide to our students. We feel so lucky to be in a district that is so powerfully supported by the community."

2016-2017 FINANCIALS

$1,000,340 RAISED FOR BERKELEY SCHOOLS

Almost 35 years ago, a group of Berkeley parents decided to organize community support for our schools in the face of Proposition 13 cuts to education. By providing support for enrichment and giving teachers a resource to turn to for their classroom needs and their big ideas, the Schools Fund has become integral to the quality of Berkeley schools. We take pride in our young graduates who have been encouraged to engage in complex conversations, act compassionately and who have been inspired by the culture and beauty of our community.

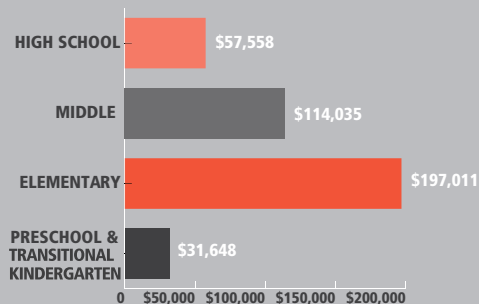

As the need for citizens who possess critical thinking, compassion and a broad mind becomes more critical everyday, so does our mission: to inspire and empower an extraordinary public education for every child. We know that the role we play helps attract and retain excellent teachers. They in turn use us as a resource to implement the ideas and projects, big and small, that help our students have the ordinary and extraordinary experiences that together make public education the foundation of a healthy democracy.

Thank you for being part of the community that has brought us through these past 35 years, and for being a source of inspiration for our teachers and students. We look forward to your continued support.

MAKERSPACE & SCIENCE HUB AT LONGFELLOW

School was constructing a new cafeteria, so we talked to school leaders about re-purposing the old cafeteria as a Makerspace—a place where science, technology, engineering, art and math come to life through hands-on learning. Interest in the project grew, and in 2016, Longfellow was chosen by Maker Ed, a national non-profit that promotes maker education for underserved youth, to receive support for curriculum development and teacher training—crucial ingredients for its success.

"Maker education dovetails with our schoolwide focus because it adds a real-world connection to students' learning, lays a groundwork for learning career skills, integrates technology in a way that matters to students, and teaches self-determination through planning and carrying out independent engineering projects. We know that many of our students from disadvantaged backgrounds are not successful at Longfellow because they don't experience a connection between their academic learning and real life. Creating projects that integrate engineering challenges, tinkering, making, and technology with students' math, science and language arts learning, will give those subjects relevance."

- Matt Hinckley, Longfellow Science and Makerspace Teacher

In addition to Maker Ed's program support, BUSD's Career Technical Education Department will be connecting programming and resources to the Makerspace at Longfellow. Also, Cal State East Bay's Institute for STEM Education, is co-locating a "Circle Lab," which offers more traditional science programming to supplement the hands-on learning at the Makerspace. With the Schools Fund's ongoing support, Longfellow will eventually serve as a Science Hub for the entire District with teacher training and a library for teachers to check out tools, materials and project kits.

In 2015, the Schools Fund learned that Longfellow Middle

EXPERIENTIAL LEARNING

Rosa Parks fifth graders participated in a Mock Trial at the UC Berkeley School of Law where the prosecution, defense, witnesses and jury were made up entirely of students.

The Insect Discovery Lab visited Rosa Parks Elementary second grade classes, giving students an opportunity to see, touch and learn all about insects!

A Classroom Grant provided Malcolm X Elementary 1st graders with a different math game to take home each week.

Jefferson Elementary fourth and fifth grade students participated in a 4-day camping trip at the Marin Headlands where they learned about environmental issues and the history and geography of the area while developing leadership and team building skills.

"Thank you for supporting the teachers of Berkeley. Our ability to meet kids where they are at is made possible, in part, by the Schools Fund's grants."

TEACHER OPPORTUNITY

"Thank you for all you do to support and enrich our teaching.
As teachers it is invaluable to be given the time and resources to improve and grow as educators!"

TEACHER FELLOWS

Three BUSD music teachers Nancy Boyles, Sarah Cline and Michael Hammond, received Schools Fund Summer Fellowships to attend the Centrum Jazz Workshop for a week near Port Townsend, Washington. Throughout the week, they each performed with a master musician and jazz educator. They also attended multiple workshops on jazz topics including theory and instrument specific issues. Nancy writes, "My experience at Centrum was amazing. It helped reaffirm my original reason for teaching music: love for the art form. I look forward to passing on the knowledge I've gained to my students this year."

CLASSROOM GRANT: BUSD DANCE PLC

In her Classroom Grant application requesting funds for a Professional Learning

Community (PLC) for BUSD dance teachers, Valerie Gutwirth emphasized how essential community is to dance as an art form. We funded her request and together, BUSD's community of dance teachers achieved:

- Expansion of dance programs in middle and elementary schools
- A stronger collaboration between UC Berkeley, the City of Berkeley and BUSD dance programs
- A community partnership with the Berkeley Symphony's Music in Schools program
- Observations, feedback and curriculum sharing
- Cross-site connections

"It has been essential for us dance teachers to meet this year, and to continue in the future. These meetings, along with the experience observing and being observed by other dance teachers, have been so important in continuing to develop my teaching and renewing my inspiration." — Aisha Gorson, dance teacher, Malcolm X Elementary

"The PLC gives me a place to talk about what's happening and get advice and feedback. It genuinely helps to get feedback from other teachers who are also professional experts in dance. Our conversations give us the opportunity to be a support for one another." — Betty Lazdecko, dance teacher, Rosa Parks Elementary

"Overall, the impact of our meetings on my teaching, my fund of inspiration and ideas, my sense of support, and my sense of myself as a valued professional, exceeded my expectations." — Valerie Gutwirth, dance teacher, John Muir Elementary

VOLUNTEER SPOTLIGHT

Last year, hundreds of Berkeley School volunteers collectively spent more than 10,000 hours helping students in classrooms, gardens, libraries, and after school programs. Charlie, a volunteer, describes, "What I like most is getting to know the kids, their interests and figuring out how to motivate them, not just to learn the multiplication tables, but to recognize their own gifts, to value and take charge of their own education." We couldn't be more grateful for our generous volunteers!

BE A SCIENTIST VOLUNTEERS

Be A Scientist is a 6-week hands-on science program designed to provide equal access for all BUSD 7th graders to hands-on learning with science mentor volunteers from UC Berkeley. Since the program started in 2014, more than 320 STEM graduate students and postdocs with backgrounds ranging from Astronomy and Biology to Physics and Toxicology have volunteered as mentors in the program. Additionally, Be A Scientist aims to break down stereotypes for students about who is and can be a scientist or engineer.

From Be A Scientist Volunteers:

"I feel that Be A Scientist strongly contributes to a 7th grader's experience with science by allowing the students to follow a project of their choosing from start to finish. This was something that I never had the opportunity to do as a middle school student and I'm happy to see that students can have this opportunity."

"I think that like all hands-on activities, this program gives students a better feel for what science actually is and, by looking at all of the different projects their fellow students came up with, they see that science can be a lot of different things. I like that the students can pick whatever they want to do (and to come up with it) - this is indicative of science too: there's bound to be a science of anything you can think of!"

VOLUNTEER IMPACT

"I believe the volunteers instill in each student the sense that they are already scientists, which opens them to learning at their full potential."

— BERKELEY PARENT

DONOR SPOTLIGHT

In her second year as a Schools Fund donor, Micki Miller identified a project to fund that she felt particularly inspired by—the Preschool/TK Story Workshop. We visited a TK classroom with Micki last year and saw first hand the contemplative but active and creative approach of the story workshop. It was incredible to watch! Teacher professional development is a powerful, far-reaching way to impact teaching and students long-term, and Micki's support even went beyond Berkeley when our TK teachers shared the work at a Mills College Summer Institute with other TK teachers. Thank you, Micki!

STRATEGIC IMPACT GRANT: PRESCHOOL/TK STORY WORKSHOP

BUSD Preschool and Transitional Kindergarten teachers spent two days at the Opal School in Portland, Oregon to learn about the Story Workshop—an early education approach that blends children's play with their own storytelling.

During Story Workshop, students use an assortment of materials or “loose parts” found inside and outside of the classroom to represent elements of the stories they create. They can create any story using materials of their choice and discuss their stories with classmates which often leads to further elaboration and editing. When the students feel they are ready or “done”, they are encouraged to write their stories down.

When children arrange their materials into a story, they engage in storytelling with their peers which promotes language development. Describing the items they manipulate, children can test new, complex words and engage in productive arguments that increase their critical-thinking skills.

With the Story Workshop approach, students are excited to write because they've been given ample time to represent their thinking and practice telling their stories. BUSD teachers say that “giving our Transitional Kindergarteners extended time and repeated practice in the use of loose parts during ‘storytelling’ or ‘exploration’ time, builds the confidence that they are indeed ‘storytellers’ themselves.”

Learn More: berkeleypublicschoolsfund.org/grants/strategicimpactgrants

It's important to read stories to young children, but it's also important for them to tell stories of their own. Fourteen

SPRING LUNCHEON

Last year's Spring Luncheon theme, "Be A Scientist", reflected the Schools Fund's ongoing priority to expand opportunities for more hands-on math and science learning for Berkeley's middle school students. We celebrated two middle school STEM initiatives and the individuals leading them. In addition, we recognized Berkeley High student Amber Lee for her remarkable leadership.

DISTINGUISHED COMMUNITY PARTNER: MARY WILDERMUTH

Mary is an Associate Professor in the Department of Plant and Microbial Biology at UC Berkeley and a parent at Berkeley High School. Mary was honored at the Spring Luncheon for developing "Be A Scientist", a 7th grade science program that every year brings 200 science "mentors" from UC to Berkeley's three middle schools to lead individual students through a process of scientific inquiry and investigation.

DISTINGUISHED EDUCATOR: MATT HINCKLEY

Matt is a science teacher at Longfellow Middle School and has served as the K-8 science teacher "lead" for implementation of the science curriculum. Matt was honored for his excellence in teaching and for his work with the Schools Fund to bring the first Makerspace to the District at Longfellow Middle School for the 2017-18 school year.
